

Identity for sale

A global security study recently carried out by Kroll Ontrack, found out that people too often fail to properly erase personal data in used drives before they are sold.

The data recovery company analysed the drives and found a huge amount of critical data in nearly half.

Giving away your privacy for free. Quality of data found.

Erase methodology applied to the drives where data was found

